Dr. Talmage Preaches an Eloquent a Christino Life.

RECORLYN, July 22 .- Rev. Dr. Talto-day's sermon through the press: fore doth a living man complain?"

If we leave to the evolutionists to guess where we came from and to the eration that the vast majority of those theologians to prophecy where we who make the dominant idea of life are going to, we still have left for consideration the important fact that we are here. There may be some doubt two out of a hundred business men about where the river rises and some doubt where the river empties, but there can be no doubt about the fact that we are sailing on it. So I am not surprised that everybody asks the question, "Is life worth living?" Solomon in his unhappy moments says it is not "Vanity," "vexation of spirit," "no good," are his estimate. nate men in this country for the six way. The fact is that Solomon was at one time a polygamist and that soured his disposition. One wife makes a man the Presidency. The reservoirs of happy; more than one makes him abuse, and distribe, and malediction wretched. But Solomon was converted will gradually fill up, gallon above from polygamy to monogamy, and the last words he ever wrote, as far as we can read them, were the words "mountains of spices" But Jeremiah says righteously and intelligently? You oscillating in his opinion from dejection to exuberance, and if he be very mercurial in his temperament it will depend very much upon which way the wind blows. If the wind blow from the northwest and you ask him, he will say, "Yes;" and if it blow from the northeast and you ask him, he will say, "No." How are we then to get the question righteously answered? Suppose we call all nations together in a great convention on eastern or western hemisphere, and let say "Aye" and all those who are in there would be more millions who would answer in the negative, and because of the greater number who have serrow and misfortune and trouble the "Noes" would have it. The answer I I answer, it all depends upon the kind of life you live.

In the first place, I remark, that a life of mere money getting is always a failure, because you will never get as much as you want. The poorest people in this country are the richest, and next to them those who are half No L'v's Topeks as rich. There is not a scissors grinder on the streets of New York or Brooklyn who is so anxious to make A'v's Topeks money as these men who have piled up fortunes year after year in store houses, in government accurities, in tenement houses, in whole city blocks. You ought to see them jump when they hear the fire bell ring. You ought to see them in their excitement when some bank explodes. You ought to see their agitation when there is proposed a reformation in the tariff. Their nerves tremble like harpstrings, but no music in the vibration. They read the reports from Wall street in the morning with a concernment that threatens paralysis or apoplexy, or, more probably, they have a elegraph or a telephone in their own house, so they eatch every breath of change in the money market. The disease of accumulation has eaten into them-eaten into their hearts, into their lungs, into their spleen, into their lives, into their

Do you not see how beautifully that will put out all the people who are in competition with you and trying to make an honest living? How quickly it will get you into high social position; What is the use of forty or fifty years of hard work when you can by two or three bright strokes make a great fortune? Ah! my friends, when you really lose your money, how quick they will let you drop, and the higher you get the harder you will drop.

Amd the hills of New Hampshire, in olden times, there sits a mother. There are six children in the house-bold—four boys and two girls. Small farm. Very rough, hard work to coax a living out of it. Mighty tug to make the two ends of the year meet. The boys go to achool in winter and work the farm in summer. Mother is the soley go to achool in winter and work the farm in summer. Mother is the chief presiding spirit. With her hands she knits all the stockings for the little fect, and she is the maintamaker for the girls. There is only one musical instrument in the house—the pinning wheel. The food is very plain, but it is always well provided. The winters are very cold, but are kept out by the blankets she quilted. On Sunday, when she appears in the kept out by the blankets she quilted. On Sunday, when she appears in the village church, her children around her the minister looks down, and is reminded of the Bible description of good housewife-"Her children arise up and call her blessed; her husband also, and he praiseth her."

Some years go by, and the two eldthese financial behamoths he would est boys want a collegiate education. and the household economies are

The university of the ministry are blessed. The other lad who got the collegiate education goes into the law, and thence into legislative halls, and after a while he comoutcast One of the younger boys becomes a merchant, starting at the foot of the ladder, but elimbing on up nutil his success and his philanthropies are recognized all over the land. The other son stays at home because he prefers farming life, and then he thinks he will be able to take care of father and mother whan they got old.

Of the two daughters, when the war broke out, one went through the hospitals of Pittsburg Landing and Fortress Monroe cheering up the dying and homesick and taking the last message to kindred faraway. Bo that every time Christ thought of her ha said, as of old, "The same is my slater and mother." The other daughter has a bright home of her own, and la cial accumulation spends a life not the afternoon or the forenoon, when she has been devoted to her household, she goes forth to hunt up the alck and to encourage the discouraged, leaving smiles and benediction all along the

But one day there start five telegrams from the village for these five absent ones, saying: "Come, mother is dangerously ill." But before they can be ready to start they receive another telegram, saying: "Come, mother is dead." The old neighbors gather in the old farm house to do the last offices of respect. But as that farming son, and the clergyman, and the senator, and the merchant, and the two daughters stand by the casket of the dead mother taking the last look, or lifting their little children to see cace more the face of dear old grandma, I want to ask that group around the easket one question: "De you really think her life was worth living?" A life for God, a life for others, a life of usefulness, a useful life, a Christian life is always worth

Neither would I have hard work to persuade you that Grace Darling lived a life worth living-the heroine of the lifeboat. You are not wondering that the duchess of Northumberland came to see her and that people of all lands asked for her lighthouse, and that the proprietor of the Adelphi theater in Philadelphia offered her $100 a night just to sit in the lifeboat while some shipwreck scene was being winds of hundreds who read this You say: "While I know all these lived lives worth living, I don't think my life amounts to much." Ahl my friends, whether you lead a life conspicuous or inconspicuous, it is worth living, if you live aright And I want my next sentence to go down into the depths of all your souls. You are to: be rewarded, not according to the greatness of your work, not according to the holy industries with which you employed the talents you really possessed The majority of the crowns of heaven will not be given to people with ten talents, for most of them were tempted only to serve themselves. The vast majority of the crowes of heaven will be given to people who had one talent, but gave it all to God. And remember that our life here is introductory to another. It is the vestibule to a palace; but who despises the door of the Madeleine because there are grander glories within? Your life if rightly lived is the first bar of an eternal oratorlo, and who despises the first note of Haydo's symphonies? And the life you live now in all the more worth living because it opens into a life that shall never and, and the last letter of the word "time" is the first letter of the word "eternity?"
